

HIV Treaters Meetings

2020-2022 Series

Description

The HIV Treaters Meetings is an ongoing series of one-hour case discussions focused on HIV infection. HIV treating clinicians present two cases at each meeting for discussion by the group. Sites are connected in real-time via video conference and teleconference technologies. See page 2 for a list of meeting locations and connection information.

Intended Audience

The target audiences for this activity are Wisconsin physicians, advance practice nurses, physician assistants, nurses, pharmacists, social workers, case managers, and dentists who provide care to individuals with HIV infection. The clinician participants include both primary care providers and HIV or infectious disease specialists. The audience includes both UW and non-UW clinicians, staff and clinical trainees.

Objectives

As a result of participation in this educational regularly scheduled series, learners will be able to:

1. Apply new or improved skills related to the complex medical issues and recommended patient-centered treatment strategies for individuals with HIV infection.
2. Recall the roles, responsibilities, and contributions of each HIV care team member in providing patient-centered care.
3. Recognize the importance of teamwork, communication, professionalism, and interprofessional collaboration in the service of providing high quality patient-centered care.

Financial Support

We gratefully acknowledge financial support from the Wisconsin Department of Health Services.
